I played soccer as a kid at my local YMCA, I played soccer mainly recreationally. I am however a huge soccer fan; I constantly watch soccer games with my sons. We watch soccer games from all over the world. As of the last 4 years I've managed to start training with my oldest son, he went from playing recreational soccer to playing competitive, I have three children currently playing soccer and we are constantly looking up training videos to further improve their ball control and help them understand that soccer is more than just scoring goals.
